

The Home Depot

Jacksonville, Florida

Bill Sulzbacher played a pivotal role in the relocation of The Home Depot from an older store with inadequate facilities to a new location on Lane Avenue on Jacksonville's west side.

Bill interfaced with Home Depot and the landowner and worked with municipal authorities and other regulating bodies for land use and zoning changes and the closing of a mobile home park on the site. In addition, he was instrumental in the development of an outparcel at the site for an Applebee's restaurant.
